Scott Jewers:

The Civilian Review and Complaints Commission for the RCMP (CRCC) is sending you this letter in response to your recent communication with our office. We are in receipt of your email dated July 23, 2026.

As previously mentioned, in terms of your complaint file #2026-1781, it is currently under investigation by the RCMP. As such, if you wish to provide further details or clarification pertaining to that matter, including the addition or removal of subject members involved in the matter, you should contact the Public Complaint Investigator on file #2026-1781.

If, after receiving the RCMP's final report on file #2026-1781, you have concerns with how the public complaint was handled, you can contact the CRCC at that time to request a Review of file #2026-1781.

In terms of your other numerous requests, no further response is being provided as you were provided with detailed responses to your concerns on April 28, 2026, and July 20, 2026. As previously mentioned, if you have concerns regarding the CRCC or the public complaint process, you may wish to refer your concerns to the Office of the Minister of Public Safety.

We understand that the complaint process and the circumstances that give rise to complaints can be stressful. However, as outlined on the CRCC's website, we will not accept threatening, discriminatory or harassing behaviour or profane communications. At this time, your repeated lengthy emails on matters that have already been discussed, and for which you were provided information on ways forward, have been disruptive to CRCC staff.

It is also noted that you were previously requested on March 30, 2026, to refrain from sending numerous unsolicited information to the CRCC and you were warned that failure to abide by this request may result in restrictions being placed on your ability to communicate with the CRCC. Despite this former warning and you being informed that no further communication would take place on matters already discussed, you have continued to send unsolicited emails. As such, we would like to, again, note that repeated behaviour of this kind may result in the CRCC restricting communications with you.

Kind regards,

The Civilian Review and Complaints Commission for the RCMP
